JUST GOSSIP ABOUT PEOPLE

Miss Dorothy Mather Has Flourishing Red Cross Auxiliary at Her Home in Bryn Mawr. Some Informal Parties

RECENTLY I was talking to a woman eighth and Chestnut atreets, yesterday at noon. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. James C. Monahan, rector of the church. oss work. She demurred; it would take e, and she did not want to go out at night, and her affairs would prevent her going in the daytime. By that time I was a bit tired and I remarked, "Well, I suppose you think the men in the camps and trenches don't want to be disturbed at night, and so they go to bed when there's

"But," returned she, "the little I would wouldn't help."

There it is in a nutshell. We don't ing this war home to ourselves. Because ur brother or husband or sweetheart has or some reason not been sent into the enches it doesn't touch us and we think e can't help. Suppose every one felt e that and sat at home and did not nake compresses and wipes and surgica Wouldn't 'things be as they essings. rere at the beginning, when many a brave of the Allies was lost through ganone and other horrible things which can averted by care and plenty of bandages d anesthetics?

TELL, she came, too, and is working as hard as the rest these days. And, eaking of working for the Red Cross, ave you heard what Dorothy Mather is oing out in the Mather place at Bryn

My dears, you know how fond of huntg and riding that whole family is and ow many week-end hunts they used to ave. Well, they had in the third story their house a huge room, which they ed to turn into a dormitory for the men these house parties. And now, when ere is so much to do, there is little time r hunting and riding, and there are fewer rties and no men to put into the dormiry. So Dorothy has turned the great long n into a Red Cross workroom and has athered the farmers' wives from all about nat country, so that from fifty to sixty eet there every week to work for their oys and ours. Then she has also got begether a number of women who knit in heir own homes. If that isn't "doing Her it" I don't know what you call it, and rtainly each one of those women who ork with her is "doing her bit." It seems me that many of us who have just lived a narrow little world, only knowing se families and people our own families ave always known, will learn what true orth is during wartimes, for we will meet he real men and women who help to make ne world a place worth living in-not a lace where clothes, position and money fill ever again mean as much as sterling tracter, health, kindliness and sincerity,

LOT of girls are having a pretty good time in spite of the fact that there are entertainments. They go down to the was near the camps and have quite a few tle parties throughout the winter, ere's Charlotte Brown, for instance. ie's been down to Augusta for several eeks this season and several times to altimore, and now this Saturday is going gain to Baltimore to attend a dinner which several of the officers of Camp leade will give at the Befvedere. She and everal other girls are going to stay on the Belvedere over the week-end, when ney will be chaperoned by Captain and irs. Edmund Thayer. Emilie Kennedy ecily Barnes, Molly Thayer and Virginia berts are in the party. I hear Cecily going down to Augusta shortly,

OY THE WAY, the party the Sheppard girls were to give for Ellanor Longff for the simple reason that there won't any Mrs. Sharp there to give it for. ou see, she left here rather unexpectedly Wednesday evening to join Lieutenant harp in the South, so, as the Chinaman sed to say, "No tickee, no shirtee"—in ther words, "no guest of honor, no party."

THE was one of those fascinating, blueeyed, dimpled babies that you love as con as you see them. She didn't mind the cold a bit, for she was all wrapped up in fur robe, with just the top of the pink anket underneath showing at the top. wayward curt had pushed itself out on th side of the furry white cap she wore, nd the solemn little mouth and chin were uggled deep down into the warm fur on e collar of her tiny coat. She was really istible, and several persons paused to eak to the "adorable thing" as they sed. Evidently she was not desirous of nversation, for she never once changed quiet, complacent expression of her Finally some one who knew her me along and of course stopped for a ngthy discourse on her looks. "Well, farjorie," she said, putting a finger under he-dimpled chin, "how are you this after on? You look very sweet in your nice varm wraps." Marjorie pulled away from he caressing finger, showed a very bored ce to the admirer and replied, disgustdly, "Oh, shut up!" NANCY WYNNE.

THE DANSANT AT THE MANHEIM CLUB

Dance to Be Given by Committee of Junior Branch of League for Women's Service

A large the dansant will be held on Saturday afternoon, February 5, at 3.30 o'clock in the ballroom of the Manheim Cricket Club under the auspices of the committee of the junior branch of the League for Women's Service for the benefit of the wool fund. The dansant which was given at the Philadelphia Cricket Club a short time ago by a group of girls who were raising funds for the little French orphans was such a success that this committee has arranged to have an affair very like that one. The "Lotopep Orchestra." which is composed of a group of boys from Chestnut Hill, has donated its services for the afternoon, so there is no doubt as to the success of the affair so far as the music is A large the dansant will be held on cess of the affair so far as the music is concerned, for this orchestra certainly does not belie its name. Refreshments of ice cream and cake will be served.

The patronesses of the afternoon are Mrs. James Starr, Jr., Mrs. William J. Turner, Mrs. Francis B. Reeves, Jr., Mrs. John Mat-thews Hamilton, Mrs. Joseph Wayne, Jr.,

The six girls who are on the committee which is arranging for the dance are Miss Sarah Logan Starr, Miss Margaret Hayes Hamilton, Miss Elizabeth B. Wayne, Miss Mary Primrose Reeves, Miss E. Martyn George and Miss Annabelle Wood.

The bridge party, which was held last evening in the baliroom of the Manheim Cricket Club for the benefit of the French wounded fund was a very successful affair. It was gotten up for the purpose of raising funds with which to buy materials to carry on the splendid work which the committee is doing every Tuesday evening in the making of surgical dressings and hospital supplies of all kinds and the rolling of bandages. Both men and women were inbandages. Both men and women were in-vited and an informal supper was served. Through the generosity of the club there Through the generosity of the club there were no expenses connected with the bridge party, so that all contributions were free to be used for materials. Mrs. Samuel Rhoades gave a short address about her work in the hospitals over in France, and she was introduced by Mr. Joseph Wayne.

MRS. WALTER D. BLABON

Junior Section of Norwood Century Club Gave "Madame Butterfly" in Song and Recitation

Even though the night was stormy, the presentation of "Madame Butterfly" in music, recitation and song by the juniors of the Norwood Century Club was the greatest success. It was given in Norwood on Saturday evening, and more than two hundred persons witnessed the performance. The auditorium looked gay and bright with its Japanese lanterns, soft lights and pretty girls in Japanese costumes to usher one to a seat. Miss Jeannette Have sang very pleasingly the welrd music of the opera then followed the story of "Madame Butter fly," which Miss Elizabeth Roberts recited Jennie Kneedler Johnson, with beautiful soprano voice, sang some of the best-known selections from the opera-Japanese scenery made an effective back-ground. A dance followed the entertain-

The ushers were Miss Martha McFarlane, Miss Margaret Irving, Miss Anna Cross and Miss Annette Engarth. Miss Gertrude Matthias and Miss Ida Doil sold attractive hand-painted programs, and cherry-blossom nunch was served by Miss Miriam Tindale and Miss Grace McHvaine.

Tuesday was the busiest kind of day at the service house in Ridley Park. All morning the members of the Woman's Club did Red Cross work. The regular club meeting was held in the afternoon and there was a most interesting program. The Hathaway Shakespeare Club entertained the women with various papers on Maurice Maeterlinck and his writings. In these Maeterlinck's employment of mysticism was discussed and his "Monna Vanna" and "The Life of the Bee" were reviewed. Mrs. Edward Fenn played some delightful music.

In the evening Mr. Charles E. Beury lectured at the Service House on his travels abroad, which encompassed 46,000 miles. He spoke particularly of Turkey, Persia and Russia, and vividity pictured the refugees that were scattered all over Russia. A large number of persons attended the lecture and it, was quite a community offer.
